Hague, December 4.

A true and succinct Relation of the signal Victory, ' gain'd the 9th of October 1708. by the intire ' Defeat of the Count de Lewenhaupt, in the fa- ' mous Battel at Leſzno within two Leagues of ' Propoliſk, by the Muſcovite Troops command- ' ed by his Czariſh Majeſty the Emperor of great ' Ruſſia; ſent expreſs by Adjutant-General Bru- ' kenthal, to his Excellency the Count de Granow ' Siniawsky great General of the Army of Po- ' land.

THE King of Sweden, after the fatal Action at Czarnanapata, which was follow'd by another Blow near Lodzin by Major-General Mikuich the 17th of September; made a Counter-march on his Right for two Days together, to paſs the River of Soza, whhich he did at Krzieżonw, and advanc'd towards the Ukraine as far us Porzop.

His Army being by this Means fatigu'd, and in greater Want than ever of all things neceſſary for the Support of Life, and at a great Diſtance from the Body under Leuwenhaupt, who was to bring to them 7000 Waggons loaded with all ſorts of Proviſions and Ammunition, which he had collected as well in Livonia as in Courland, was oblig'd to wait for the Succours with which they had ſo long flatterd themſelves.

Leuwenhaupt therefore, that he might obey the Orders and ſupply the preſſing Neceſſities of his Maſter, haſten'd his March as much as poſſible, and paſs'd the Boriſthenes at Sklow.

His Czariſh Majeſty who had made all imaginable Diſpoſitions to break the Enemy's Meaſures, gave Order to the Field-Marſhal Czeremethof and to the Lieutenant-Field-Marſhal Golitz, to harraſs, the moſt they could, the King of Sweden; while he himſelf would endeavour to engage Leuwenhaupt with a Body of 10 Regiments of Horſe and 6 Battallions of Foot.

His Czariſh Majeſty had Sight of the Enemy the 8th of October, on the Banks of the little River Pronia; and the Enemy made as if they would oppoſe his Paſſage; but no ſooner were 7 Field-Pieces brought up to cannonade them, than they ſtruck off towards the Village of Leſzno.

Towards the Evening his Czariſh Majeſty gave Order to his Army to hold themſelves ready to march the next Day, in order to attack the Enemy.

About 4 in the Morning the Army began to March, and about 9 at ſome Diſtance from Leſzno met the Enemy who had ſent before ſome Parties for Intelligence.

Leuwenhaupt was no ſooner inform'd of our March and Approach, than he drew up his Army in Order of Battle, and made all poſſible Diſpoſitions to give us a good Reception. To that End he caus'd two Battalions to advance 1000 Paces before his Camp, to diſpute our Paſſage through a ſmall Moraſs by which we were oblig'd to come at him.

Upon this his Czariſh Majeſty gave Order to his Highneſs Prince Menzikoff, to command Collonel Cambel who had the Vanguard, to cauſe his Regiment of Dragoons to diſmount and attack the Enemy's two Battallions, who made ſo quick a Fire upon our Men, that they had hardly time to form themſelves into Order of Battle. Collonel Cambel obſerving how active the Enemy were, caus'd 5 Squadrons who had diſmounted to advance, to give Opportunity to the reſt of his Troops to put themſelves into a Poſture to follow them; and theſe diſmounted Dragoons having ſtood the Enemy's Fire for ſome time, his Czariſh Majeſty caus'd them to be ſupported by 4 Battallions of his Guards and two of Ingermanland. Our Men pouring in their Shot upon tthe two forementiond Battallions, kill'd above half of them; gain'd the Paſſage, and ſo facilitated our drawing up in Battalia before the Enemy's Front.

General Leuwenhaupt perceiving his Vanguard was beaten, reſolv'd to prevent us and caus'd his Army to move up to meet us in Battalia. Then his Czariſh Majeſty obſerving that the Enemy's Line extended wider than ours, order'd his Highneſs Prince Menzikoff to cauſe 4 Regiments of Dragoons to alight; and they were immediately plac'd on our Left Wing with 2 Regiments of Horſe to cover their Flank, under the Command of General Fflug; and our Right was commanded by the Princes of Gallieczin and Darmſtad, whoſe Flank was cover'd by two Regiments of Dragoons of his Highneſs Prince Menzikoff's Guards: All theſe Diſpoſitions being made by about 11 a Clock, the Signal for attacking the Enemy was given by a general Diſcharge of all our Artillery: The Enemy began to Advance towards us with great Fiercenеſs and Reſolution; and the Fight being hot and obſtinate on both Sides for above an hour and an half, the Victory hung in ſuſpence.

During the terrible Fire which was made every where, his Czariſh Majeſty appear'd in the Places of moſt Danger, to animate by his Valour and Preſence all the Officers and Soldiers; and obſerving that the Left ſuffer'd much, he cau'd it to be reinforc'd by the Regiment of Guards of Prince Menzikoff.

The Enemy obſerving how well we acquitted our ſelves under the Eye of our Auguſt Monarch, began to give Ground, yet drew off in Order of Battle.

Then we redoubled our Efforts, to improve that Advantage: The Enemy being driven back to their Waggons and Baggage, Action was for ſome time forborn on both Sidas. About 3 a Clock, our Cannon coming up, began to play agen.

Things ſtanding thus, his Czariſh Majeſty being inform'd that General Baur was within half a League of him with 4000 Men, thought fit to wait a little for his Arrival.

About 4 a Clock General Baur came up with his Body, and was oblig'd to endure the Fire of the Enemy's Artillery before he could joyn our Right, where he was to poſt himſelf. From this Junction his Czariſh Majeſty began to entertain Hopes that all would end well; and order'd that neither the Right nor the Left ſhould renew the Fight one without the other: But the Left Wing having ſtood a good while without attacking, the Impatience of all our Officers and Soldiers ſuperſeded that Order. Our Right Wing renew'd the Attack likewiſe with the utmoſt Vigour.

The Enemy ſeeing themſelves repuls'd, caus'd 2 Battallions and 10 Squadrons of their Reſerve to advance and charge our Right in Flank; but they were ſo well receiv'd and afterwards ſo cloſely purſu'd, that of the two Battallions not above 50 Men eſcap'd. Upon this Advantage, our Left and our Centre, puſh'd forwards among the Enemy's Waggons, breaking all their Left Wing, On their Right Leuwenhaupt rallying his Troops, fac'd our Men who were among their Waggons, and caus'd ſuch a Fire to be made on our Battallions and Squadrons, as oblig'd them to retire. But our Centre and Left Wing advanc'd at the ſame time againſt the Enemy, who were oblig'd to face to the right about to make head againſt us. The Charge was renew'd with greater Fury than before, both by the Horſe and Foot; and their Fire, which the Enemy anſwer'd duely, did not ceaſe till it was dark Night, when we could no longer diſtinguiſh our own Men from our Enemies.

In the Night, his Czariſh Majeſty conſidering the Difficulty of diſlodging the Enemy from behind their Waggons; forbid the Officers on Pain of being caſhier'd, and the Soldiers of being hang'd, to quit their Ranks to rifle the kill'd: So the Army kept all Night under Arms, watching the Enemy.

In

In the mean time the Trophies of the Day were presented to his Majesty, consisting of 47 Colours and 10 Standards; and 16 Cannon which we had gain'd, were added to our Train of Artillery.

Thus we past the Night which was very cold; and towards the Morning we saw the Enemy kindle Fires about their Waggons. His Czarish Majesty order'd that Fires should be made in the Front of our Right Line, and that we should hold ourselves in a Readyness against Daybreak. Which being come, we march'd towards the Enemy's Waggons, expecting to meet no less Resistance than before: But we soon found that Leuwenhaupt had made use of that Stratagem to cover his Flight, abandoning to our Discretion all his wounded, and 7000 Waggons design'd to supply the Want under which the Army of the King his Master labours.

General Pflug was immediately order'd with 1000 Grenadiers on Horseback, and 2000 Dragoons, to pursue and Harrass the flying Enemy. He had not march'd above half a League, when he found the Remains of the Enemy in a Wood; and falling upon them, he made a Slaughter among them for the space of a League and Half, to Propolisk; where the rest of the Runaways, to the Number of 3000, retir'd into the Church-yard.

Our General advancing to force them, they made a Signal that they were desirous to Capitulate; and he sent a Lieutenant-Collonel with 6 Grenadiers to receive their Offers of Capitulation: But most of the Swedish Soldiers being drunk with Brandy, would not agree to their Officers Propositions, and many of them firing, kill'd two of our Grenadiers. The Lieutenant-Collonel seeing their Headiness, retir'd, and General Pflug resolv'd not to spare them. Our Grenadiers and Dragoons enter'd the Church-yard, and Sword in Hand kill'd all that resisted. During this Execution, part of them fled towards the River Soza. General Mikusch pursu'd that Party two Hours, and saw Count Leuwenhaupt Swimming through that River among his Men; whereupon he swum it with his Detachment, and coming to the other side, most of the Swedish Officers begg'd Mercy, and he gave them Quarter, but caus'd the Soldiers to be put to the Sword.

He rejoyn'd General Pflug with all the Officers and Booty; and those Prisoners reported that they believ'd General Leuwenhaupt was dead of two Shots through his Body.

The next Day his Czarish Majesty caus'd Thanks to be solemnly return'd to the Almighty for this Signal Victory, which cost the Enemy 20 Regiments amounting to 16000 Men, among them Major General Stakelberg who was kill'd on the Field of Battle, with all the Officers who were not taken Prisoners.

We have 2673 Prisoners, 103 Officers, 47 Colours, 10 Standards, 16 Cannon, 7000 Waggons, and all the Arms and Baggage, the Victory being compleat.

On our Side we lost 70 Officers kill'd or dangerously wounded. 1277 Soldiers kill'd, 2734 wounded, among them his Highness the Prince of Darmstad, General Baur, Collonel Weiden, and two Muscovite Collonels.
